E112L Physiology Lab Syllabus
Marjan Koosha

Office Hours
Wednesday 1pm-2pm, or by appointment
Steinhaus Hall 490

Optional text
Human Physiology: An Integrated Approach 5th or 6th edition by Silverthorn
(On reserve in the science library)

Lab equipment & Dress Code
Lab coats and aprons are needed for labs that involve dissections. Please wear closed toed shoes and pants during the lab just as a safety precaution.

Electronic Devices & Cell Phones
Cell phones and electronic devices should be put away during lab section. Silence all cell phones when you enter lab section.

Attendance & Late Policy
Lab lecture and lab section must be attended weekly. There are no make-up labs for any lab sections missed. If there is an emergency situation, a solution will be created to make up for the lab that was missed. Otherwise, weekly attendance is required, as well as being on time and prepared. Being late to lab regularly will result in the deduction of participation points, which are factored into your final grade.
Personal Conduct

Respect of fellow peers and to the class material is expected. Please come prepared for each lab section, having read the protocol for the lab prior to the start of section. After the completion of a lab, please wipe down the countertops with ethanol and ensure that your work environment is left in the condition that it was in prior to the start of section.

Homework Assignments & Quizzes

Homework assignments will be posted before the start of each lab section and can be found under "Class Files." The completion of these assignments contributes to your participation points. Late homework will result in points deducted. Always read the lab protocol before the start of lab section, as there will be pre-lab quizzes sporadically throughout the quarter. Homework and quizzes are a way to earn participation points, which are integrated into your final grade.

Contact Information

If you need to contact me through email with any questions, please keep your questions concise. I respond to emails within a 24-hour period, but please only send me one email in this time frame. Office hours are a great time to ask questions or review any material that is not clear.